FOREWORD

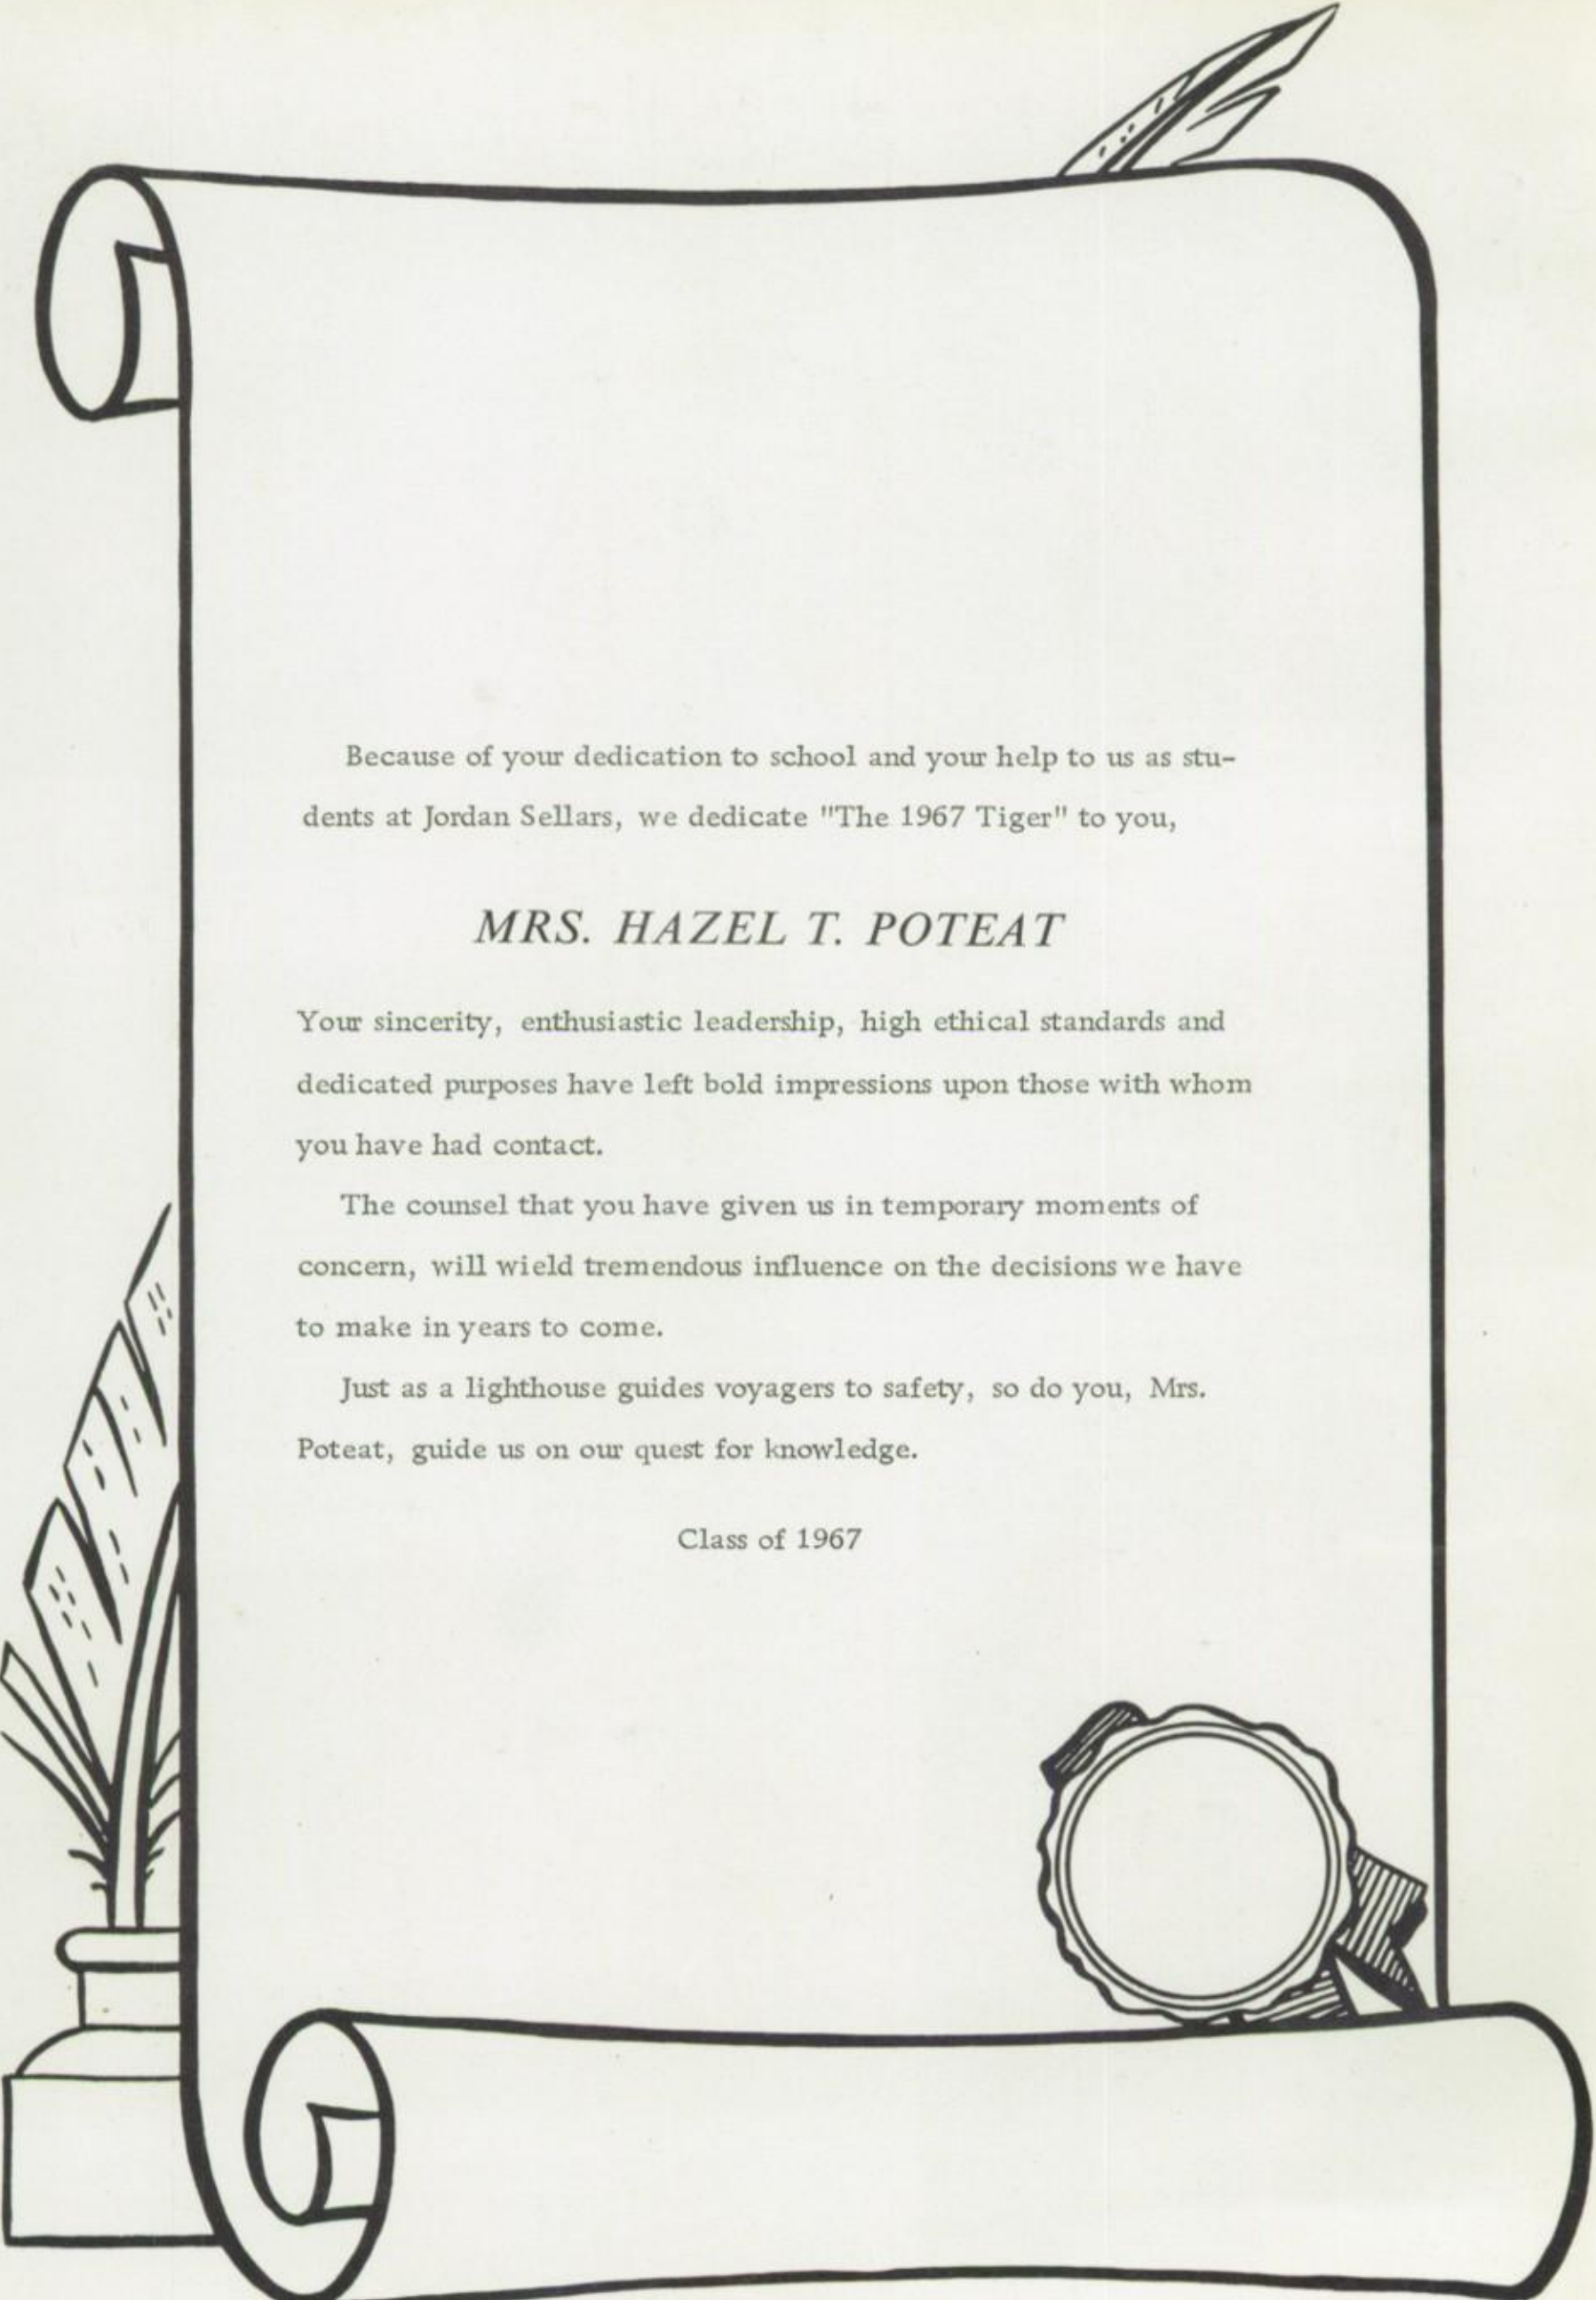

With the passage of years, you may look back upon this school year as the time when the darkness of ignorance suddenly became bright with the gleam of knowledge.

To preserve a record of these moments and the countless other experiences of the students, this edition of "The Tiger" strives to take a closer look at student-life and to capture the eye and mind of the scholarship, the leadership, the activities, and the character of the Jordan Sellars School.

DEDICATION

Mrs. Hazel T. Poteat, business education instructor . . . a lady, advisor and friend whose first consideration and interest is that of the student. She is chairman of the Business Department and has been instrumental in the expansion of the department to include Typewriting I, Typewriting II, Bookkeeping I, Shorthand I and Basic Business.

Because of your dedication to school and your help to us as students at Jordan Sellars, we dedicate "The 1967 Tiger" to you,

MRS. HAZEL T. POTEAT

Your sincerity, enthusiastic leadership, high ethical standards and dedicated purposes have left bold impressions upon those with whom you have had contact.

The counsel that you have given us in temporary moments of concern, will wield tremendous influence on the decisions we have to make in years to come.

Just as a lighthouse guides voyagers to safety, so do you, Mrs. Poteat, guide us on our quest for knowledge.

SUPERINTENDENT'S MESSAGE

It is again a pleasure for me to accept the invitation of THE TIGER staff and extend greetings to students, faculty, and friends of Jordan Sellars School.

It is apparent that all who are concerned for the welfare of the school have worked effectively to make this another successful school year. I want to thank each one for the contribution which he has made to strengthening the school curriculum and operation.

Best wishes to the students, faculty, and parents of Jordan Sellars School. We especially extend continuing best wishes to the seniors who will be in the graduating class of 1967.

Principal's Message

The anatomy of a school is not just bones and sinew, as it is with a physical body. It is the basic structure of a planned educational experience; it is the muscular ties that make all activities coordinate smoothly to accomplish work; and, above all, it is a guiding brain and a moving spirit that makes each one of us, in our own responsibilities, aware of what we can contribute as individuals, and what the social body can contribute as a whole.

As you take leave of Jordan Sellars, I hope you have already begun to realize that all the exercises you have gone through, mental and physical, have not been meaningless motion, but have developed capacities that will enable you to take your place in the world of work and in the world of dreams. Often you grow tired in the effort, and too often, perhaps, some of you may let opportunities for growth and development lapse. But on your newly attained level of maturity, you can now, by continued action, thought, and resolution, take your place, benefiting from the strength and skills you have already developed and determining to pursue further potentials that, maybe in the past, you have had only in dreams.

The sweat of the athlete in achieving a hard-won victory for his team or for personal glory is the fragrance of discipline and sacrifice. In a larger sense, may each of you, as you go through your chosen field of training, endeavor, and accomplishment, at least bring home an individual laurel of victory to be a crown that you secretly wear in the quiet pride of a life well lived, if not, indeed, as an outward, visible sign of the recognition of your fellow man.

J. A. Freeman
Principal

John H. Malloy, Assistant Principal

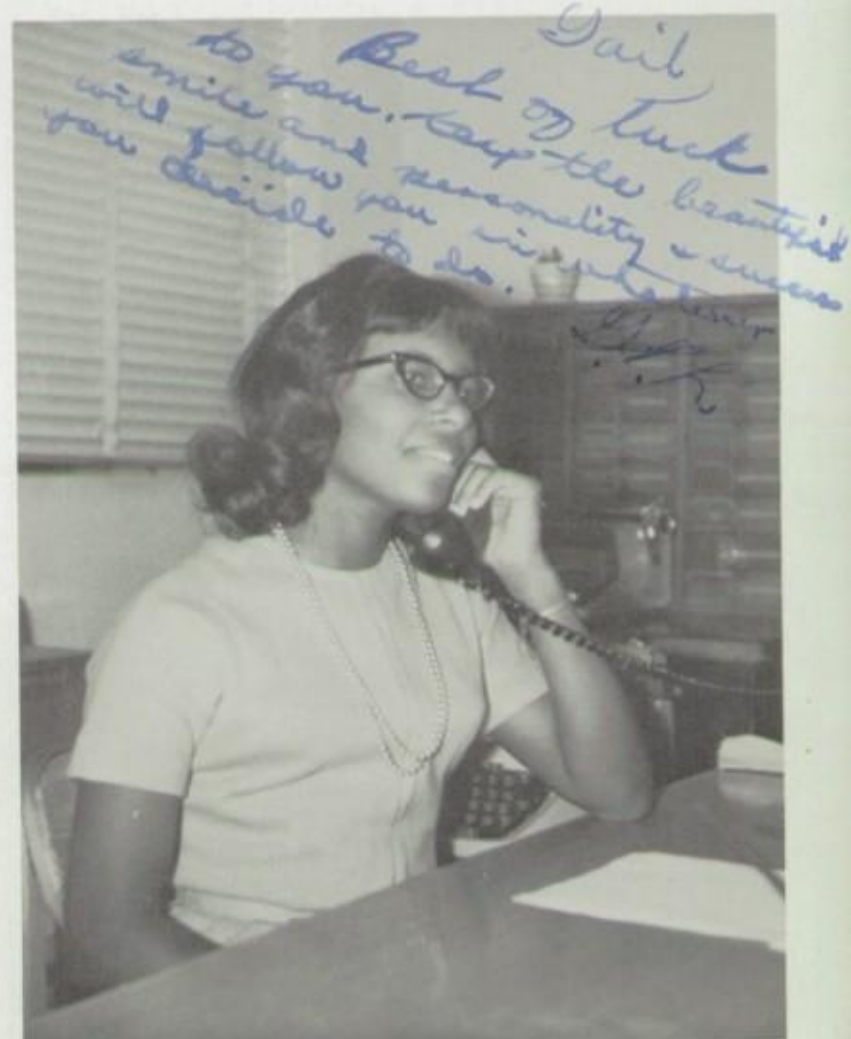

TO THE GRADUATES:

The preparation of this yearbook is a good example of what people can accomplish by working together toward one common goal. You are to be congratulated on a job well done.

May each of you pursue your own individual hopes and aspirations in life with the same careful and thoughtful planning and work that was necessary for the preparation of this yearbook.

As you leave this place and go forth into the highways and byways of life, I would caution each of you to never forget that every privilege you have, carries with it an obligation; every right you deserve, carries with it a responsibility; and for every achievement you attain, there is a sacrifice. But in spite of the obligations, the responsibilities, and the sacrifices, always thank God for everything.

Well Gail,
 It's about over now,
 but I will remember
 the times in Physics,
 Ana. & Phys., and Sociology,
 that we fought. (smile)
 Good luck in the future

Hi Gail,

Hear Ye! Hear Ye!

This is a command from me to you: "you are to be very happy and successful."

I sure will miss
you, and maybe you know who and I might be able to have a beautiful garden
together.
